Time -Treasure -Talent

Are you participating in your child's Elementary Education?

As a parent, part of your job is to be active in your child's education. This includes monitoring any homework responsibilities, volunteering to help with various projects in the classroom, and helping with fundraising and other parish and school activities. As the parent you are modeling what you want your child to learn. Help them to learn that volunteering is an important part of their future. Giving of their time, talent and treasure is important for them and important for their school and community. Sometimes it is very difficult to help, you feel exhausted at the end of the day and excuses are very easy to find. But demonstrating what "time" and "talent" looks like to your child is an essential part of their education. At St. Joseph's we have plenty of opportunities for you to do just that. Please visit the parish and school website to find an activity where you will feel comfortable. It's OK to start small, eventually you will find that the time and talent you give volunteering will come back you in many forms over and over again.

God Bless,
Mr. Burki
